

LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY

IN

NEW ORLEANS

First Annual Commencement

LAKE FRONT CAMPUS

FRIDAY AFTERNOON, JUNE 8, 1962, FOUR O'CLOCK

TODAY, JUNE 8, 1962, is a date of unusual significance. Marking LSUNO's first commencement and the awarding of its first diplomas, it stands as a milestone, not only in the history of higher education but also in the material and cultural progress of a city, a state, and a nation. This afternoon a far-reaching concept is being brought to fruition. A dedicated effort is being rewarded, and an aspiring faith is being justified.

This is a day which enriches New Orleans, which brings honor to Louisiana, and which strengthens America itself. In the vital, continuing crusade for a better human society, founded upon knowledge and enlightenment, this is a date which will designate a victory. In extending its sincerest gratitude to those citizens who are present, and to those who constitute its supporting public, the University invites them to share its profound satisfaction in the achievement which this ceremony will celebrate. It asks them to share its confidence in the future.
